"...only together are we able to build the Body of Christ, the Church."

MISSION STATEMENT

The mission of the Parish School of Religion at St. Margaret of Cortona is to prepare Students to become full and active members of the Catholic Church who are capable of making significant contributions to society and managing change in a culturally diverse world community. Our goals are to:

- Provide a loving, caring, and disciplined Parish School of Religion environment where all students can reach and maximize their full human potential as children of God.
- Encourage students to serve the Church, their local community, the nation, and the world community by actively engaging in ministry to others.
- Educate children so they may be prepared for responsible, life-long learning, and productive participation in the Church as a community under the guidance of Our Lord Jesus Christ.
- Promote the home-school partnership in education by recognizing parents as primary educators of their children and providing opportunities for them to be active participants in the educational ministry of their child's religious education.

St. Margaret of Cortona Religious Education believes that we all share in Jesus' own mission of proclaiming the Reign of God. This is that activity which enables faith to become living, conscious, and active through the light of instruction - especially sharing God's Word in Scripture and sharing the Tradition of the Roman Catholic Church. We seek to open our children and youth to the discovery of the goodness and beauty of God as reflected in their world, and help them to experience this world within the Catholic Christian Community.

"Catechesis of the Good Shepherd is the result of a long period of careful observation of children by Sofia Cavalletti and her Montessori collaborator, Gianna Gobbi, in Rome. It began quite by accident, without warning or planning, the way God so often comes into our lives. In 1954 Sofia was a Hebrew and Scripture scholar, comfortable in her role in the academic world, when a mother asked her to give some religious instruction to her son. At first Sofia refused, saying she knew nothing about children. But the mother persisted and eventually Sofia consented. That experience with a 7 year-old changed her whole life. She saw in that child, and in numerous other children since, a way of being in the presence of God that is both unique to the child and a gift to the adult who stops long enough to notice. Perhaps it is because Sofia went before the child with no preconceived ideas of what should happen that the child responded with such joy. Certainly her background in Scripture made it possible for her to talk about God in a way that opened and enthused the child as well as Sofia herself. From that day to the present time Sofia and Gianna remind us constantly to look to the child to watch for that sign of a deeply religious life - joy - and to always ask the question: "What face of God is the child telling us he or she needs to see" (<http://www.cgsusa.org/>)?"

"The Catechesis of the Good Shepherd is an approach to the religious formation of children. It is rooted in the Bible, the liturgy of the church, and the educational principles of Maria Montessori. Children gather in an "atrium," a room prepared for them, which contains simple yet beautiful materials that they use. You may be wondering how these materials help the religious life of children. If an adult hears a beautiful passage from the Bible, the adult might take a Bible, find the passage, and read it slowly again and again. He or she may think deeply about the words and perhaps speak to God in a thankful or hopeful prayer. But a little child, too young to read, needs another way. In an atrium the child can ponder a biblical passage or a prayer from the liturgy by taking the material for that text and working with it - placing wood figures of sheep in a sheepfold of the Good Shepherd, setting sculpted apostles around a Last Supper table, or preparing a small altar with the furnishings used for the Eucharist. Older children who do read often copy parables from the Bible, lay in order written prayers from the rite of baptism, or label a long time line showing the history of the kingdom of God" (<http://www.cgsusa.org/>). This is indeed an excellent program for young children.
